

Clue

Imagine you're starting a new exercise routine.

Which option would give you more control over your personal information: telling your trainer your goals directly, or letting them track everything you do with a special device?

⇒ To return to the game, close this window, by clicking on the X.

1/1